Admittance 's WO SHILLINGS each.

And as some HUNDREDS of LADIES and GENTILEMEN have been disappointed of seeing his Perrommances, (who, from the constant overflow of company, could not possibly get admittance,) Mr BOAZ is sensible there are yet many curious, many in-genious persons desirous of seeing the perfection to which his astonishing arts are carried, and the many useful purposes to which they may be applied; and as public formemore than private interest is his chief timest—sand anxious, in affect, to please the whole Public, and ambitious to gain on this occasion that general approbation which he has experienced on others, and sought on all; hereby respectfully acquaints the Public, that every curious, inquisitive, and concemplative mind may now have an opportunity of satisfying their curiosity with a spectacle which neither art or nature may produce again in accuracy. He therefore prays the role wirmanso not to lose the present opportunity of seeing his wonderful, and he may, say his miraculous, Performances. They are truly calculated for the genus of the British notion, being nove ape to improve the mind than affect the senses; and in any candictuatry less callightened would invariably appear super atural.

the Duty arising e year ending on the BINDLEY. The above sums are the gross amounts ithin each District respectively, for the 1st of August 1787. J. BINDLEY, E. FAWKENER,

L. JENKINS, W. R. SPENCER,

N. B .- All persons intending to bid for any of these Ditricts, are desired to take notice, that they will not be put up to sale according to the numerical arrangement in which they stand above; but that the order or selling will be varied, as circumstance shall direct, and not declared previously to the day of sale, for the purpose of choouraging a fair competition, and of defeating the combinations heretofore experienced at the time of bidding to the great prejudice of the Revenue. COURT OF KING's BENCH -December 17.

TOWER V. DELZELY. Mr Gangow flated, that this action was brought to recover the sum of 998l. After he had substantiated that demand by evidence,

Mr ADAM, leading Counfel for the defendant, ob ferved, that this debt was contracted in Africa; that fo long ago as August 1705, this money was paid into the hands of the defendant, as treasurer of the company. It was paid into his hands exactly as a man paid money into the hands of his bankers. On the African coaff, those who had gone from this country kept their accounts in pounds, shillings, and pence, though the cirng medium of the country was gold dull, calculated at a fair average of 4l. an ounce. And, therefore, he contended, that, in reference to that calculation, a fum ought to be deducted from the 9981. There was also a charge for commission, &c. The defendant had paid into Court the fum of 750l. and the queltion was, Whether that was not enough to cover this demand? The account here was to be fettled precifely in the fame way, and on the same terms, as if the parties had been on the coast of Africa, where the debt originated.

Lord KENYON thought it was impossible for the Jury and him to afcertain the amount of this demand by the calculation of gold dust at so much per ounce on the coast of Assica; and that the only safe ground they could adopt was, to consider the demand as 9981.

Mr ADAM faid, there was a question still behind, and that was the question of interest. This was a case of confiderable importance to African merchants. the custom on the coast, no interest was ever paid for money till it either actually reached this country, or might have reached it by the first conveyance.

this country in January laft, and therefore interest ought only to be paid from that period.

Lord Kenyon. I think it would be difficult for you to shew that since August 1795, the ship that arrived here in January last was the first ship by which this money could be fent. It is not to be supposed that this money was lying idle in the hands of the defendant from August 1795 till that time. He, no doubt, laid it out in commerce, where the profits are often very great; and therefore I shall leave it to the discrethe Jury to fay, whether they will not allow interest.

In addition to the 750l, that had been paid into Court, the Jury found a verdict for the Plaintiff for 410l, including interest.

THELLUSSON D. THOMPSON.

This was an action on a policy of infurance on an unded casks of sugar on board the ship Valentine, from Lancaster to Hamburgh, and was brought to recover an average loss of 27 per cent. in consequence of its having been deteriorated by sea water. The terms of the policy were, that no average under 5 per cent, was to be allowed. On the part of the plaintiff it was proved that the Valentine experienced a confiderable deal of tempestuous weather on her voyage to Hamburgh; the fea ran entirely over her, and the was obliged to put into Stromness, in the Orkneys, to be repaired; this was previous to the month of December; the afterwards proceeded on her voyage, and was frozen in in the Elbe for fuch a length of time, that it was March before her cargo was delivered. The figure were faid to have been damaged; and on the part of the plaintiffs the depolions of the Hamburgh merchants were produced, by which, according to their flatement, it appeared, that the fugars, but for the damage they had received from the fea water, would have fold for 27 per cent. more than they did.

Mr Law faid that the defendant, in relifting this claim had merely done it in order to expose the conduct of the Hamburgh merchants in estimating averages. The idea of an Hamburgh average was synonomous with what the people of this country called a Yorkshire bite. He would prove that the fugar had only loft 200lb. weight out of the 100 hogsheads, and that the falt water was no detriment whatever, or at least in a very trifling degree, to the remainder.

Having established in proof that the fugar had only wasted 200lb. weight, he called a Mr Coles, and several other fugar-bakers, who distinctly proved that a deficiency of 200lb. weight in 100 hhds. was no more than there would have been by that common leakage of the molaffes they were liable to, had they remained all the time in the warehouse; they also proved that if sea-water had got to the fugars, it was impossible but they must have lost in bulk more than 200 weight, and that a deficiency of 200 weight in fuch a quantity was hardly a damage worth speaking of; at the most it could not amount to more than one and a half per

It therefore clearly appeared the merchants of Hamburgh had acted in a fradulent manner; consequently the Jury felt themselves bound to give a verdict for the > COURT OF COMMON PLEAS, Dec. 18. MISS WILSON D. POWDITCH.

BREACH OF PROMISE OF MARRIAGE.

This was an action brought by Miss Wilson, of Newcastle, a beautiful and amiable young lady, endowed with every accomplishment a polished education could bestow, to recover a compensation in damages for the injury she had sustained for the defendant's breaking his promise of marriage to her. The defendant was a captain of a ship trading to the Baltic; and, during seven years, had assiduously paid his court to the plaintiff, and constantly expressed the most ardent attachment for her. His attentions produced a reciprocal passion on the part of the lady; but at this time her parents ob jected to the match, as neither suitable for her, nor an swerable to her expectations. In consequence of this the match was broken off in the year 1797.

Letters which paffed between the defendant and the plaintiff from the year 1792 to 1797 were produced and read; they breathed nothing but love and affection, and anticipated the mutual happiness they expected when they should be united by marriage. In the same year the courtship was renewed with more ardour on the part of the defendant than ever; and he never dealed his folicitations to her parents till he obtained their confent. At this time he was compelled to a temporary absence by the duties of his profession; he went abroad, but he never fuffered a polt to leave the place where he was without fending a letter to his promised bride. On his return, he slew to her on the wings of impatience, and a time was fixed for their marriage. On the very day the defendant had appointed to celebrate his union with the plaintiff, at Newcastle, ment, and the infult offered to her feelings, threw her into a paroxyfm of phrenzy and diffraction, which the only recovered to fall into a state of despondency and affliction, by which her health became daily impaired. Such was the nature of the injury which the plaintiff, by her witnesses, fully substantiated.

On the part of the defendant, it was urged, that his pride had been wounded by the young lady's family having formerly rejected him, and it was for that reason he had declined the alliance. It was stated in extenu-ation of damages, that he had failed in trade, prior to the renewal of his courtship in 1797, and that at the time when he did renew it, he was not worth more than 600l. He also inferred, that the confent of the parents was not fo much the refult of their approbation of him, as because they found the passion of their daughter in his favour was so violent, that the most serious effects were likely to attend its disappointment. It was also urged, that the parents, as they had rejected his offers before his faifure, had acted improperly in fanctioning them

Lord ELLON addreffed the jury. He had no doubt but they would exercise their judgment with that temperance and moderation which such a case required, and not be moved by their feelings to give wind clive damages. His Lordship was doubtful how far actions of this nature were in general wife; but if ever there was a cafe in which fuch an action was advisable, this was the case. The defendant had paid his addresses to the plaintiff for feven years, for a time without, and afterwards with the confent of her family, and till within two days of his marriage. It did appear that his property was only 600l. which undoubtedly the jury would ake into confideration. As to the lady, no damages that could be given would be a compensation for her fuffering; but it was a maxim of the law, that no man to be punished in his purse was to be so punished as to occasion his ruin.

The jury confulted together for a very flort time, and returned a verdict for the plaintiff—damages Five Hundred Pounds.

The verdict feemed to give univerfal fatisfaction.

SUBMARINE GROTTO.

A fubmarine grotto has lately been discovered on the Malabar coaft, by Captain Nixon, of the Apollo, who gives the following description of it :

At one part of the reef, to the westward of the flag flaff, I discovered a large bed of coral; almost even with the furface of the water, which afforded, perhaps, one of the most enchanting prospects that nature has any where produced. Its base was fixed to the shore, and reached so far in that it could not be seen, fo that it feemed to be suspended in the water, which deepened fo suddenly, that at the distance of a few yards there might be feven or eight fathoms.

The fea was at this time quite enruffled, and the fun fbining bright, exposed the various forts of coral in the most beautiful order, some parts branching into the water with great luxuriance, others lying collected in round balls, and in various other figures, all which were greatly heightened by fpangles of the richest colours that glowed from a number of large clams, which were every where interspersed. -

The richness of this fubmarine grotto could not be furveyed without a pleafing transport, mixed, however, with regret, that a work to stupendously elegant should be concealed in a place where mankind could feldom have an opportunity of rendering the praises justly due to fo enchanting a scene.

TIPPOO SULTAUN'S ZENANA-

The whole of the Zenana confilts of about eighteen square courts, communicating with each other by narrow passages, which afford a free access from one part of it to another, and of which all the women are allowed to avail themselves. The several apartments which are on the ground floor, are square, very lofty, and four of them include a spacious square court, into which they open by means of large cedar folding doors. In the center of each court which is floored with white tiling, there is a fountain, supplied by pipes from an extensive reservoir on the outer side of the palace.

All the apartments are ornamented externally with beautifully carved work, celebrated for the difficulty of the workmanship, as well as for the taste with which it is finished. In the inside, the most of the rooms are hung with rich filks, of various colours; the floors are covered with beautiful carpets, and there are fofas difposed at different distances, for the purpose of fitting and fleeping.

The cellings of all the apartments are beautifully painted, and the other principal decorations confilt of folid gold and filver mouldings all round the rooms, and very large and valuable looking-glaffes hung on different lls, with clock tlite make.

The dress of the ladies consists of a shirt, with markably full and loofe fleeves, hanging almost to the ground, the neck and breast of which are lest open, and their edges are neatly embroidered with gold. They wear fine muslin drawers, and over the shirt a castan, which is a drefs fomething fimilar in form to a loofe great-coat without fleeves, hanging nearly to the feet, and is made of filk or muslin, or of gold tiffue. A fash of fine linen or cotton, folded, is tied gracefully round the waift, and its extremities fall below the knees. this fash two broad straps are annexed, and passing under each arm over the shoulders, form a cross on the breaft; and to that part of it which passes between the breast and shoulder of each arm is fixed a gold tortoise, carelessly suspending in front a gold chain. Over the whole drefs is extended a broad filk band, which furrounds the waift, and completes the drefs.

The hair is plaited from the front of the head backwards, in different folds, which hang loofe behind, and at the bottom are all fixed together with twifted filk. Over their heads they wear a long piece of filk, about half a yard wide, which they tie close to the head, and fuffer the long ends, which are edged with twifted filk, to hang behind in an easy manner nearly to the ground. At the upper part of each ear hangs a fmall gold ring, fet with brilliants, half open, which has at one end a cluster of precious stones, sufficient nearly to fill up the vacancy occasioned by the opening of the ring. the tip, or lower part of the ear, is likewife suspended a broad and folid gold ring, which is so large that it reaches as low as the neck, and which, as well as the other, has a cluster of precious stones, in proportion to the fize of the ring.

They wear on their fingers feveral fmall gold rings, fet with diamonds or other precious flones; and on the wrifts, broad and folid gold bracelets, sometimes also fet with precious stones. Their necks are ornamented with a great variety of bead and pearl necklaces; below he married a widow, at Liverpool. As foon as the these a gold chain surrounds the neck, and suspends in plaintiff heard of his persidy and cruelty, her disappoint front a profusion of brilliants.

AGRICULTURE.

The comparative advantage of the labour of horfes and oxen have been for some time under the confideration of the public. His Majetly has unquestionably tried the latter upon a larger scale than any other perfon, as he does not work less than 180 oxen upon his different farms, parks, and gardens, and has found them answer so well, that there is not a horse now kept for the purpose of tillage. Upon the two farms and the great park at Windfor, 200 oxen are kept, including those coming on and going off. Forty are bought in every year, rifing three years old, and are kept as fue. cession oxen in the park; 120 are under work; and 40 every year are fatted off, rifing feven years. The working oxen are divided mostly into teams of fix, and one of the number is every day refled, fo that no ox works more than five days out of the feven. This day of cafe in every week, befides Sundays, is of great advantage to the animal, as he is found to do better with ordinary keep and moderate labour, than he would do with high keep and harder work.

Thefe oxen are never allowed any corn, as it would revent their fatting fo kindly afterwards. Their food n fummer is only a few vetches, by way of a bair, and the run of coarfe meadow, or what are called leafowes, being rough paftures. In winter they have nothing bur cut food, confifting of two thirds hay and one-third wheat straw; and the quantity they eat in twenty-four hours is about 24lb. of hay and 12lb. of ftraw; and pri the days of rest they range as they like in the straw yards; for it is to be observed, they are not confined to hot stables, but have open sheds, under which they eac their cut provender, and are generally left to their choice to go in or out. Under this management, as four oxen generally plough an acre a day, and do other work in proportion, there can be no doubt but their advantage s very great over horses, and the result to the public highly beneficial. The forty oxen that go off are fummered in the best pasture, and finished with turnips the

INDIAN FORTITUDE.

The following almost incredible instance of perseverance and fortitude in an indian warrior, is commi

ted in a letter from St Lawrence, of the 4th of July : The Shawano Indians being obliged to remove from their habitations, in their way took a Mufkoligo warrior prifoner. They ballinadoed him feverely, and condemned him to the fiery torture; he underwent a great deal without shewing any concern; his countenance and behaviour were as if he suffered not the least pain. He told his perfecutors, with a bold voice, that he was a warrior; that he had gained most of his martial reputation at the expence of their nation, and was defirous of thewing them, in the act of dying, that he was still as much their fuperior, as when he headed his gallane countrymen against them; that although he had fallen into their hands, and forfeited the protection of the Divine Power by some impiety or other, when carrying the holy ark of war against his devoted enemies, yet he had fo much remaining virtue as would enable him to punish himself more exquifitetly than all their ignorant crowd could do, if they would give him liberty, by untying him, and handing him one of the red-hot gan barrels out of the fire. The proposal, and his method of address, appeared so exceedingly cold and uncommon, that his request was granted; then suddenly feizing one end of the red-hot barrel, and brandifhing it from fide to fide, he forced his way through the armed and furprifed multitude, leaped down a prodigious fleep and high bank into a branch of the river, dived through it, ran over a small island, and passed the other branch amidst a shower of bullets; and though numbers of his enemies were in close pursuit of him, he got into as bramble fwamp, through which, though naked, and in a mangled condition, he reached his own country.

FRANCE.

The following is the official account of the armiflice lately concluded between the royalists and republicans: DELARUE, General of Brigade, Military Commandant of the Department of La Sarthe, in a state of siege, to the Com-mandant of Mons.

The General in Chief has fent me a courier exraordinary, to announce that he has concluded with Melheurs Chatillon, Bourmont, and d'Autichamp, principal chiefs of the royalifts, a suspension of hostilities within the departments of the west, and has ordered me immediately to stop all marches, and all hostile proceedings, through the extent of my command. I confequently order you, Citizen Commandant, not to make any fortie nor commit hostilities against the royalists, till you receive further orders. In the mean time be continually on the watch. If, notwithstanding our vigilance any attempts are made against the public security, confult upon that head with the royalist chi who will act in concert with you to purfue and arrest the authors of them; watch particularly the highways, but only in finall patroles, fo as to give no uneafiness to the infurgents. In this state of things, the royalist chiefs will be enabled, without interruption, to communicate with each other, and make their intention known to their divifions or companies, fo as to affure the effect of the fufpension of hostilities. Should a recourse to arms be renewed, you shall be apprized of it eight days before-Secure every correspondence, either with yourfelf or with me, which may tend to the re-establishment of peace. DUCHESS OF DEVONSHIRE'S POEM.

THE PASSAGE OF THE MOUNTAIN OF SAINT COTHARD. By GEORGINA, DUCHESS of DEVONSHIRE.

(1) Ye plains, where three-fold harvests press the ground, Ye climes where genial gales incessant swell.
Where art and nature shed profusely round
Their rival wonders—Italy, farewell.
Still may thy year in fullest splendour shine!
Its icy darts in vain may Winter throw!
(2) To thee, a Parent, Sister, I consign,
And wing'd with health, I woo thy gales to blow.

(3) Yet, pleas'd, Helyetia's rugged brown Lee.

(3) Yet, pleas'd, Helyetia's rugged brows I see,
And through their craggy steeps delighted roam;
Pleas'd with a People, honest, brave, and free,
Whilst every step conducts me nearer home.

(4) I wander where Tesino mally flows, From cliff to cliff, in foaming eddies tost; Ou the rude mountain's barren breast he rose, In Po's broad wave now hurries to be lost.

His shores, neat huts, and verdant pastures fill.
And hills, where woods of pine the storm defy;
Whife scorning vegetation, higher still,
Rise the bare rocks coeval with the sky.

Upon his banks a favour'd spot! found,
Where shade and beauty tempted to repose;
Within a grove, by mountains circled found,
By rocks of crhung, my rustic seat i chose.

By rocks of rhung, my rustic seat I chose.

Advancing thence, by gentle pace and slow,
Unconscious of the way my footstep wrest,
Sudden, supported by the hills helow,
(5) ST GOPHARD S summit rose above the rest.

Midst towering cliffs, and tracks of endless cold,
Th' industrious path pervades the runged stone,
And seems—Helketia let thy toils be toid—
A granite girdle o'er the mountain thrown.

No haunt of man the weary traveller greets, No vegetation units upon the moor.

Save where the floweret breathes uncultur'd sweets, .

(6) Save where the patient Monk receives the poor. Yet let not these rade paths be coldly tracid,
Let not these wilds with listless steps be trad;
Here fragrance scorns not to perfume the waste;
Here Charity uplifts the mind to God.

Here Charity upines and standard from the holy man prepares, the holy food, and wholesome lore bestows, And shape food, and wholesome lore best Extols the treasures that his mountain bears, And paints the perils of impending snows.

for whilst bleak Winter numbs with shilling hand—

(7). Where frequent crosses mark the traveller's fate—
In slow procession moves the mer chant band,

And silent bends, where tottering ruins wait.

Yet 'midst those ridges, 'midst that drifted snow, Can Nature deign her wonders to display; Here Adularia shines with vivid glow, And gems of chrystal sparkle to the day.

(8) Here too, the hoary mountain's brow to grace, Five silver lakes, in tranquil state are seen; While from their waters, many a stream we trace, That 'scap'd from bondage, roll the ricks between (9) Here flows the Reuss to seek her wedded love, And, with the Rhine, Germanic climes explore; Her stream I mark'd, and saw her wildly move Down the bleak mountain thro' the craggy shore.

My weary footsteps hop'd for rest in vani, For steep on steep, in rude confusion, rose; At length I paus'd above a fertile plain (10).
That promise'd shelter and fortold ropose.
Fair runs the streamlet o'er the pasture green,

Hair runs the streamlet o'er the pasture green,
Its margin gay, with flocks and cattly spread;
Bubowering trees the peaceful village serien,
And guard from snow each dwelling's jutting shed.
Sweet vale! whose bosom, wastes and cliffs surround,
Let me awhite thy friendly shelter share!
Emblem of hite! where some bright hours are found;
Amidst the darkest, dreariest years of cate.

Delv'd through the rock, the secret passage bends;
And beauteous horror strikes the dazzled sight;
Beneath the pendant bridge the stream descends,
Calm—till it tumbles o'er the frowning height; Calm—till at tumbles o'er the frowning height,
We view the fearful pass—we wind along
The path that marks the errors of our way—
Midst beetling rocks, and hanging woods among,
The torrent pours, and breathes its glittering spray.
Weary at length serener scenes we hail—
More cultur'd groves o'ershade the grassy meads,
The neat, though wooden hamlets, deck the vale,
And Altorf's spires recall heroic deeds.

But the no more amidst those scenes I roam, My fancy long each image shall retain—

My fancy long each image shall retain—

(11) The flock returning to its welcome home—

And the wild carol of the cowherd's strain. And the wild carol of the cowherd's strain.

Lucernir's lake its glacy surface shews,
Whilst nature's varied beauties deck its side;
Here rocks and woods its narrow waves inclose,
And there its spreading bosom opens wide.
And hail the chapel! hail the platform wild!
Where Tell directed the avenging dart,
With well strong arm, that first preserv'd his child,
Then wing'd the arrow to the tyrant's heart.

Across the lake, and deep embower'd in wood, Behold another hallow'd chapel stands, Where three Swiss heroes lawless force withstood, And stamp'd the freedom of their native land. Their liberty requir'd no rites uncouth, No blood demanded, and no slaves enchain'd; Her rule was gentle and her voice was truth, By social order form'd, by laws restrain'd.

We quit the lake—and Cultivation's toil; With nature's charms combin'd, adorns the way, well-earn'd wealth impro (12) And simple manners still maintain their sway. Farewell Helvetia! from whose lofty breast,

Proud Alps arise, and copious rivers flow ; Where source of streams, eternal glaciers rest,
(13) And peaceful science gilds the plains below,

Oft on thy rocks, the wand ring eye shall gaze, Thy valies of the raptur'd bosom seek— There, nature's hand her boldest works displays, Here, bliss domestic beams on every check... Hope of my life! dear children of my heart!
That anxious heart, to each fond seeling true,
To you still pants each pleasure to impart,
And more—on transport—reach its home and you!

NOTES.

(1) We quitted Italy in August 1793, and passed into Switzer-laws already standing in Lombardy. The third crop of cornews already standing in Lombardy.

(2) We left Lady Spencer and Lady Besborough at the Baths of Lucca, intending to pass the winter at Naples.

(3) The contrast between Switzerland and the Milanese appeared very striking. The Milanese were insested with a band of robbers that caused us some alarm, and obliged us to use fore precautions; but, from the moment we entered the mountains of Switzerland, we trave-led without fear, and felt perfectly secure. Death is the punishment of robbery. This punishment, however, very rarely occurs. At Lausanne there had been but one execution in sisteen years.

(4) On the 9th, we embarked upon the Lero Magiores, at the

(4) On the 9th, we embarked upon the Lago Magiores, at the little town of Sifto, fittated where the Teino runs out of the Lake. In the courle of two days navigation, we particularly admired the firthing and coloffat flatue of St Charles Boromeo, with its pedefal 100 feet from the ground. The beautiful Boromean illands, and the shores of the Lake, are interfered with towns and woods, and crowned with the diffant view of the Alpadon the roote of the roote of the roote of the three Clifabpine Ballages belonging to Switzerland; and, as the air was too nowlous for us to venture to fleep there, we fent our horges to conduct us to Bellingaria, a pretty town in the middle of high mountains, under the jurificiction of three of the Swifs cantons, Switz. Underwold, and Uri. From hence (after having prepared horfes, chairs, and guides, and having our carriages taken to pieces) we fet out on the evering of the 13th to enter the mountain, and afcended gridually by a root which nearly followed the course of the 1 citing. The Telipso takes its rife hot far from the funmit of Sr Goshatal and joins the Po near Pavia.

(6) There is a finall convent at the top of the mountain, where two Mouks refide, and who are obliged to receive and entertain the port traveller that paties this way. Padre Lorenzo had lived there for twenty years, and feemed a fenfible and benevolent min. They have a large dairy, and make excellent cheefe. Five finall likes which are at the top of the mountain, supply them with Millan.

(8) The Rhine, the Rhone, the Aar, the Tessino, and the Rems, all rise in the Mountain of St Gothard.

(9) The Reuss mires with the Aar, beyond the lake of Constance, and with them falls into the Rhine.

(01) The valley of Ursera is celebrated for its fertility and verdure, and the placid manner in which the Reuss runs through it. It was formerly woody, but the pessans believe that their forests were destroyed by a magician. The green pastures and placid appearance of the valley form a beautiful contrast with the rocks and precipices which surround it.

pastures and placid appearance of the valley form a beautiful contrast with the rocks and precipices which surround it.

(11) The circumstance alluded to pleased me very much though I saw it not in St Gothard, but in the mountains of Bern. At evening, a flock of goats returned to the market place of the little town of Interlacken; immediately each got went to its peculiar cottage, the children of which came out towelcome and caress their little comrade. The Ram des Vaches sang by the Swiss cowherds, is a simple melody, intermixed with the cry which they use to call the cows together.

(12) The domestic society and simple gaiety of most parts of Switzerland, cast in spite of the inroads of strangers; indeed it seems impossible not to seek rather to join in their happy amusements than to wish to introduce the dissipation of other countries amongst them.

(13) The intressing literary characters in Switzerland are very numerous. At Geneva, M. de Saussure, the first who boldly reached and examined the summit of Mont Blanc; his daughter Madame de Germary whose writings are said to be as lively-and fanciful as Aristo's, and who is celebrated as a shotanist; Mr Hubert, the blind observer of nature; Mr Sennebier, &c. &c.

At Lausanne, Mr Constant, the author of Lause; Madame de Montollen, the author of Caroline de Litchfield; and when I was there the almiable Dr Tissot, who delighted by the charms of his conversation, as much us he was revered for his skill and humanity. At Zurich, Lavater, who adds to genius and eccentricity an enthusiastic pursuit of every benevolent virtue.—At Neufchatel, Madame Chariere, the interesting author of Calitie, ou Lettry: de Lauranne—not to omit Necker, da Tremclay, de Luc, Burnet, and so many others, who have been lately celebrated in Switzerland.

On the 23d ult. the Marquis of Granby, of Sunder land, Captain STEPHEN URWIN, was captured in croffing the Kentish Knock, by a French privateer. The captain and two men were put into the Frenchman's boat, to be conveyed on board the privateer, which was giving chace to another vessel, and by carrying a press of fail, in a short time, left the boat sive miles a itern. This circumstance induced Mr Urwin to conceive it practicable to retake his own veilel; and, wresting a fword out of the hand of the officer of the boat, he compelled the French failors to row him back to the Marquis of Granby. He boarded her, fword in hand, and foon cleared the deck of the faos culottes, who precipitately plunged into the deep, and were picked up by their countrymen in the hoat. The ca proceeded on his voyage; but what became of the French failors and the boat is unknown. Rive years have now elapsed since Mr Johnston first made known to the world this very extraordinary Medicine. During this short period its efficacy has been so clearly demonstrated that its sale has infinitely exceeded any former example. Comparatively, there are few families which have not either heard of or experienced its beneficial effects; and with hearfelt satisfaction he has the happiness to declare WHITEHEAD'S ESSENCE of MUSTARD has cured more persons afflicted with Rheumetism, Gout, Lumbags, Palty, Complaint; of the Shomach and other Painful Malastics, than all the medicines ever before mode public. It has obtained the approbation of many eminent men of the Faculty, and honoured with the unsoftined support and recommendation of the first families in the kingdom As the bottles, beres, labels, and bills of direction of this original medicine are closely copied, and the words "By Royal Authority," artfully, substituted for the words "By the King's Patent," it may clude common observation: Mr Johnston therefore recommends the afflicted to be particular in the purchase. Whitehead's Essence of Mustard, is prepared and sold, in Pills and in a fluid state, at 22 gd. each box or bottle, by the Inventor, R. Johnston, apothecary and chemist, No. 23. THE ESTATE of LUVILAIFHEN, for some time called Fintar, in the parish of Monyfieth, and county aforesaid. The lands contain about 430 acres, 70 or 80 of which are in wood and pasture, and the remainder arable. The house is large and commodious, and, with some afterations and repairs, may be made a most convenient and comfortable residence for a large family.

The farm offices are uncommonly complete and substantia!,
The whole estate is completely inclosed and subdivided, and is in the highest state of cultivation, and (except a small detached part let to substantial tenants) may, together with the house, yarden, and offices, be all entered to at Martinmas first. The plantations are in the most thriving state, and the situation, on the banks of a remarkably fine trooting stream, adorned with hanging woods, is succommonly beautiful, dry, and leaking. There are two roads to the turnpike leading from Dundee to Arbroath, Montrose, &c. by different approaches to the house, which is only four mile sdistant from the former populous and thriving town, fernarkable for its excellent markets. The grounds, as well as the adjoining country, abound in game. The distance from the set is only a mule and a half, by an excellent turnpike road, terminating in a fishing rown, where there is excellent sca-bathing, and where coal and lime can be supported, and grain shipped, and adjoining to which there is a tract of links and sands for twelve miles along the shore, excellently adapted for fiding or airing in all seasons. The extate affords a Prectibile Qualification, and the rest roil and valuation put on it (the greater part not having been under lease for upwards of fifty years) by persons of the most acknowledged skill, are to the signet, who will treat for a sale by private bargain.—The citledeeds are complete.
